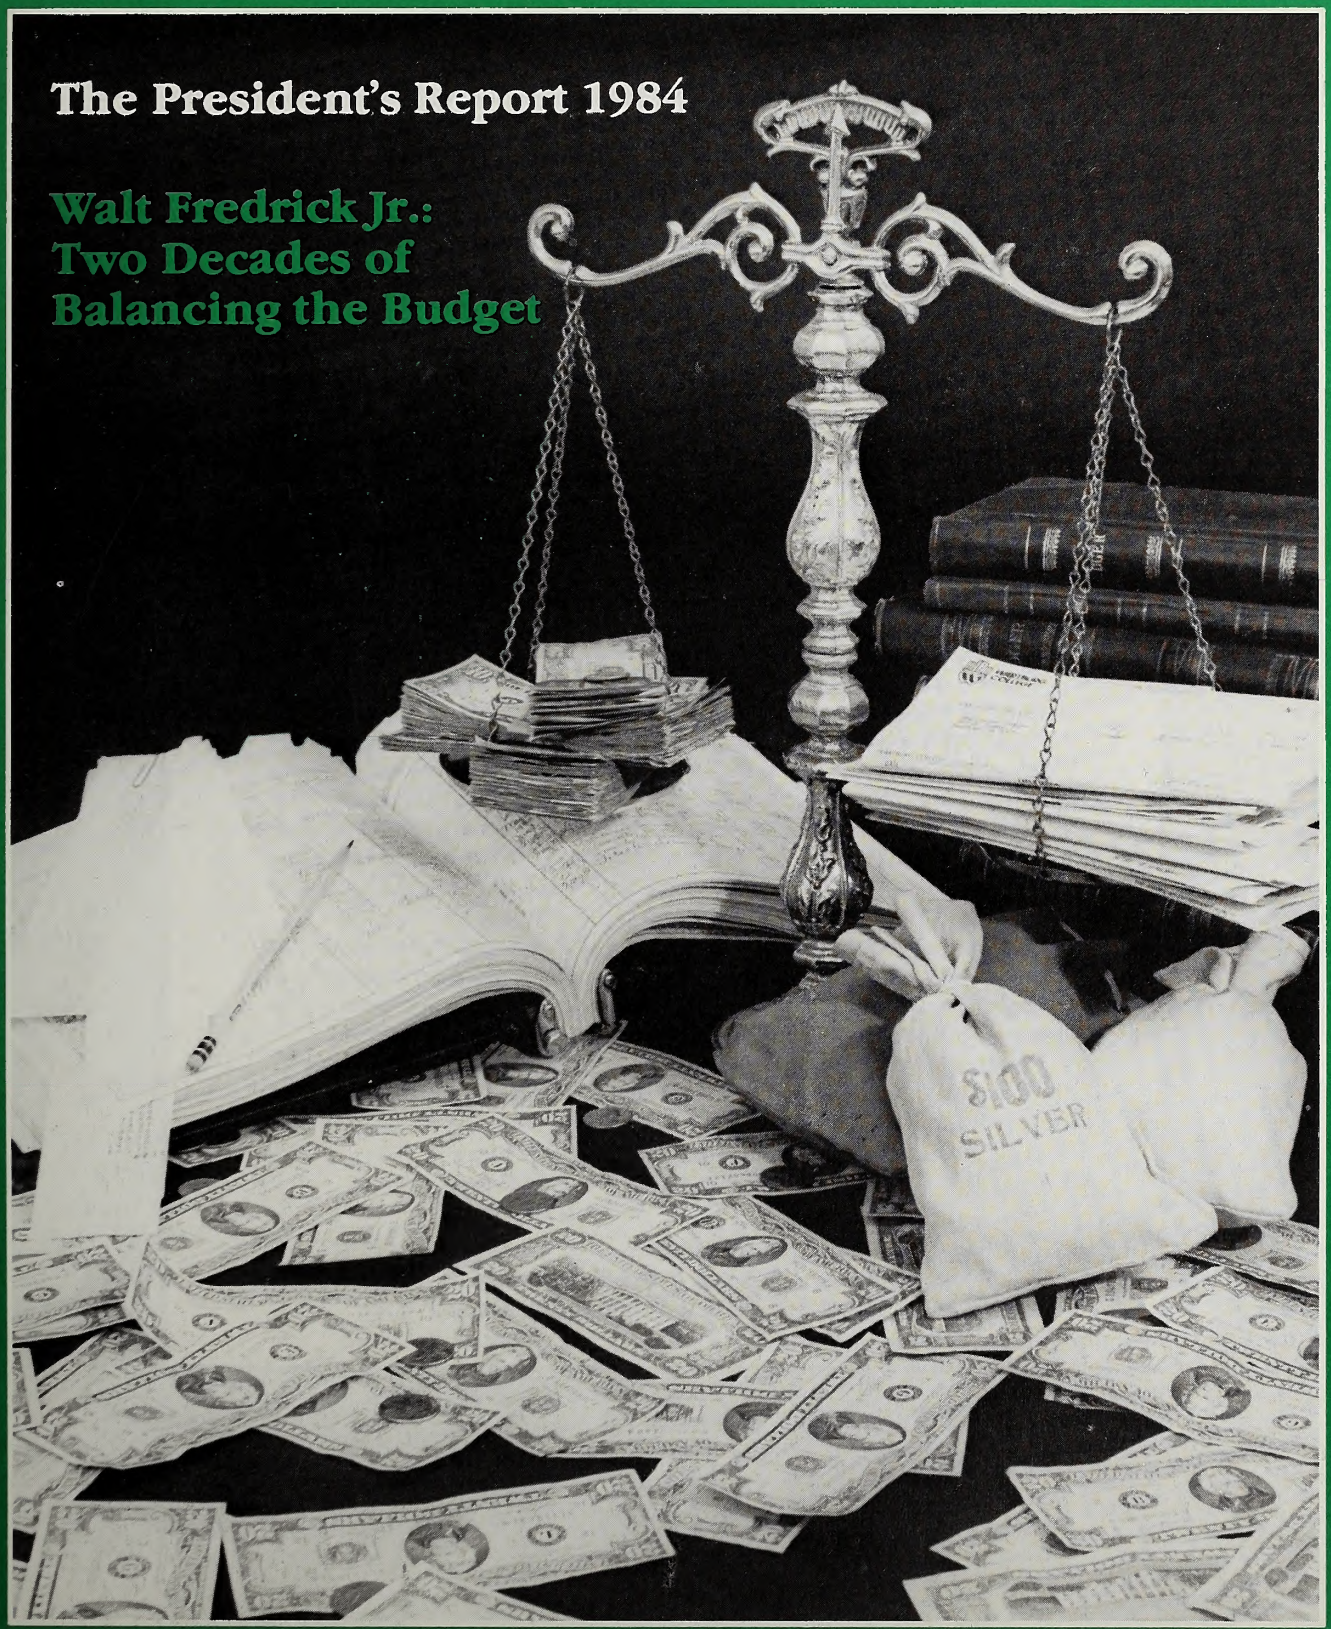
Walt Fredrick Jr.: Two Decades of Balancing the Budget



ARCHIVES

A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

To our Readers:

This issue of Wartburg Magazine serves two purposes. Via the President's Report, which always will be the bulk of our fall issue, you'll be reading the president's message and the names of the hundreds of contributors who help Wartburg stay on track financially.

Secondly, we're giving you an abbreviated version of our regular magazine, with the exception of Knights in the News items, which run in full. It is our special pleasure to feature an interview with Walter Fredrick, Jr., a favorite of us all. For many of us, including Congress, balancing the budget is something we've always dreamed about, but never accomplished. For Walt, balancing the budget is second nature. He will be missed immensely by the entire Wartburg community when he retires in December.

Since my staff and I survived to tell about putting out the first issue of Wartburg Magazine, it's most gratifying to report that we've had overwhelmingly favorable reviews.

Your cards, letters and phone calls have been much appreciated. It motivates us to continue putting out the best product we can.

Clearly, there is no way a magazine can be put together effectively without a team effort. In Wartburg's case, we are lucky to have an exceptionally talented, spirited and diversified crew in our College Relations office, which puts up nicely with each others' idiosyncracies. In addition to us "word types" like Elaine Main, Duane Schroeder and myself, we're blessed with the likes of Barbara Kluesner, a gifted graphic designer, and Kathy Locke, a typesetter who is faster than a speeding bullet. Mardella Koch, our unsinkable office secretary, is the glue who keeps us all together.

Next issue—winter—we'll be offering you a complete array of our regular magazine fare, including a cover story on "Computerizing a College," a journey into an enigmatic name—"Wartburg, What's in a Name?" and a story about our international alumni, plus more.

If you, our readers, have any story ideas, or would like to pen something yourself, we welcome you with open arms. Editorial discretion, of course, rules, but we are most receptive.

About the cover: Since this issue of the Wartburg Magazine recognizes the retirement of Walter Fredrick, Jr., who has been balancing the budget at Wartburg for the past 22 years, and also serves as the annual President's Report to its constituency, it is appropriate the cover symbolically depict the juggling act it takes to keep a private, liberal arts college solvent. The money and bills are courtesy of the business office (they were returned).

Enrollment increases for third straight year

Wartburg College has experienced an enrollment increase for the third straight year, according to figures from the registrar's office.

Total enrollment this fall is 1,199 students, which represents a 10 percent increase over the past three years and a 5 percent increase over last year's total of 1,140.

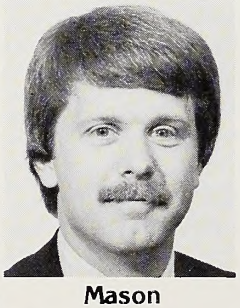
A breakdown of this year's student body shows 389 freshmen, up from 355 a year ago, 286 sophomores, 264 juniors, 217 seniors and 43 special students.

New students (freshmen and transfers) this year number 441, up from 408 a year ago.

The increase from 1,080 students in 1981 to 1,131 in 1982, 1,140 last year and 1,199 this fall makes Wartburg one of the few private colleges and universities in the Midwest to show three consecutive years of increased enrollments.

Admissions Director Doug Mason is not only pleased with the increased numbers of students but also with the quality.

This year's freshmen class includes 160 Regents Scholars, students who receive financial awards based strictly on academic ability. Last year's Regents Scholars numbered 102. In order to qualify for the Regents Scholarship competition, students must be in the upper 10 percent of their high school graduating class or have scored 28 or above on their ACT (American College Testing) examination. In addition, there are 21 State of Iowa Scholars among the freshmen on campus.



Mason

Mason said the policy of the college is enrollment management.

"Our goal is controlled growth," he said. "We denied more people than ever before because we want to keep up the quality in the student body. We don't want to compromise the quality of life on campus just to get bigger. We want to retain students first, then promote growth."

Overcrowded classroom and residence halls and overworked faculty and advisors are the result of uncontrolled growth, Mason noted, leading to retention problems.

This year, Wartburg saw 690 students return from last year, up from 679 last fall.

Mason also cited a number of other factors which he believes contributed to the enrollment increase.

Among these were completion of the new Whitehouse Business Center, providing new facilities for one of the fastest growing departments on campus, expansion of the computer system, increasing instructional capabilities in this area, the college's placement record of 95 percent over the past five years, a commitment to a congenial campus atmosphere and to quality of life on campus, increased attention to marketing techniques and promotional materials and increased visibility of Wartburg to high school students.

Wartburg students come from 25 states and 14 foreign countries.

Wartburg to participate in placement consortium

A new Iowa College Placement Consortium, involving eight private colleges, has been put in place to enhance placement possibilities for graduating seniors.

Members of the consortium are Wartburg College, Central College in Pella, Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Grand View College in Des Moines, Grinnell College in Grinnell, Mount Mercy College in Cedar Rapids and Simpson College in Indianola.

The consortium is an effort to meet problems facing small colleges when attempting to place graduates in jobs.

"One problem is getting recruiters on the campuses of small colleges," Rich Manke, director of Wartburg's Career Development Center, said. "Companies are unable to interview enough potential employees on campuses when the graduating classes run 200 to 250 students with only eight or 10 of those holding degrees in the right areas.

"With the Placement Consortium, the eight schools put all their graduates in one pot and the working figure increases to 1,900 students."

Manke said there are two unique features to the plan: it allows pre-screening of potential employees by the employers, and it is flexible.

Information about the consortium has been sent to employers in all fields across the U.S., and those interested return information about the organization and available jobs.

The placement offices send the appropriate student resumes to the employer, who in turn selects those to be interviewed and determines an interview date and time. All interviews will be held at either Grand View College in Des Moines or Coe College in Cedar Rapids, because of their accessibility to airports.

Manke said the response by employers has been good.

"I expect that our students will be talking to 18 to 20 additional employers as a result of the consortium," he said. "It is opening up geographical areas we would not normally get into, and it opens the doors to businesses and corporations that frequently liberal arts colleges would not attract."

Manke said, for example, he has received inquiries from school districts in the Southwest and from major corporations and businesses in a number of Midwestern cities.

"While the Consortium is most beneficial to business and education students, I believe it will help students in all majors," he said.

Manke directs a placement service which has had 95 percent success in placing students over the past five years.

'Wartburg West': a new extension program in Denver

Wartburg will expand its academic offerings next fall by initiating a new urban-experience program in Denver, Colo.

Wartburg West, as it will be known, is designed for students who wish to have the experience of living and working in an urban setting and who have a particular interest in city life.

It is an opportunity to witness first hand the pluralistic make-up of today's cities. Denver particularly meets that requirement because of its large minority populations.

The program also is designed to give students the advantage of an extensive work experience to prepare them for employment or to assist them in making vocational and educational decisions.

Students participating in the program may do so for a term or for a year. It is intended as a junior year program, but exceptions will be permitted.

A number of details, such as faculty, site, directorship and housing policies, still need to be worked out, according to Dr. Edwin H. Welch, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty.

"We hope to nail things down this month," he said, "and a complete picture of Wartburg West should be available sometime in December."

Welch said one of the advantages of choosing Denver as the site for the program is the fact that there are a large number of alumni in the area.

"Not only is this a way for us to keep in contact with them and to serve them, it provides a means for them to help us. They can serve as contacts in selecting part-time faculty for Wartburg West, suggest a possible site and a director, and they can be important contacts in setting up internships and work experiences for our students."

The curriculum is designed to give students extensive time for such internships and work experiences. In fact, there will be four course credits offered in the Fall Term, two of them academic and two for internships, and five in the Winter/May Terms, three academic and two for internships.

Welch envisions academic offerings to include such courses as Arts in the City, which deals with the fine arts, music and drama as offered in the Denver area; Metropolitan Seminars I and II, which will survey major issues in urban America; Futuristics, a seminar which will consider ideas, trends and alternatives for the future in a variety of areas and their impact on individuals and their life styles; and Christian Ethics, which will translate Christian doctrines into behavior guidelines and life style models.

Students participating will pay Wartburg's tuition for the period in the program. However, they will be responsible for paying for their own room and board. It is estimated the costs will be comparable to a year or term on campus.

Wartburg West will be offered any time there are five or more students interested.

While Wartburg West is primarily a metro-studies program, Welch anticipates a number of other advantages for the college.

He said he believes it will help with the retention and recruitment of students, especially in the booming Colorado area, and it will provide additional contacts for the development department in a large metropolitan area.

Student response to the program has been enthusiastic. When the plan was first announced, the student newspaper, the Trumpet, editorialized, "For years, foreign language students have spent their junior year abroad, returning with stories and experiences that were extremely valuable—experiences they never would have enjoyed if they (had) remained at Wartburg. With Wartburg West, all students can have that opportunity—an opportunity to learn, to get hands-on experience with an internship and to grow as a person."

Christmas at/with Wartburg is December 1-2

An Advent cantata by Bach to help celebrate the 300th anniversary of the composer will be the focal point of this year's Christmas at Wartburg program.

Nun Komm, Der Heiden Heiland (O Come Thou Savior of the Nations) has been selected as the theme for the performances Dec. 1 and 2 at Cedar Falls, Iowa, and Waverly, Iowa.

Christmas with Wartburg Dec. 1 will be at 8 p.m. in Nazareth Lutheran Church, Cedar Falls. Two performances have again been scheduled the following day in Neumann Auditorium—at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The traditional Christmas Carol Buffet in the Student Union also will be Dec. 2.

As in the past the Christmas at/with Wartburg programs are without charge and are the college's gift to the community. Tickets are required for the Wartburg performances, however, and may be obtained without charge by writing or calling: Christmas at Wartburg, Visitors Center, Wartburg College, 222 9th St. N.W., P.O. Box 1003, Waverly, Iowa 50677 (319 352-8286). The tickets are necessary to control crowd distribution between the two performances. No tickets are necessary in Cedar Falls.

Tickets for the Christmas Carol Buffet also may be obtained by writing or calling the Visitors Center.

Prices for the buffet are $7 for the dining hall and $8 for the Castle Room. Serving in the dining hall is continuous from 5 until 7 p.m., and there are two Castle Room settings—at 4 and 5:30 p.m. There will be a wassail bowl, beginning at 4 p.m.

The menu at the buffet will be similar to past buffets, and there again will be ensembles from the Wartburg Choir performing traditional Christmas carols throughout the evening.

Cantata No. 61, Nun Komm, Der Heiden Heiland, is built around a chorale melody of the same name.

The cantata will be used as a unifying theme throughout the program which tells the Advent story through the written word and music by the choir, orchestra, Castle Singers, band, organ and chamber choir.

A third Christmas event, the traditional Candlelight Service, will be Dec. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Neumann Auditorium and is also open to the public. Christmas music in a variety of languages is one of the features of this service.

Campus religious activity picks up

Pinning down why there is heightened interest this fall in religious activities at Wartburg College isn't easy. The Rev. Larry Trachte, campus pastor, credits upperclass leadership and an enthusiastic freshman class, while students credit Trachte.

Whatever the reason, it appears a joint campus-wide effort is working.

Chapel attendance is one example. This year's attendance at the 20-minute daily worship averages 150 persons, with attendance sometimes reaching 200, up significantly from recent years.

This fall large crowds attended the special events sponsored by Wartburg's campus ministry board.

Groups represented on the campus ministry board are Catholic Knights, Clown Troupe, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Christians Active in Lutheran Ministry, Campus Crusade for Christ, Chapel Choir, Adopt-a-Grandparent Program, Cultural Liaison Committee and Spiritual Emphasis Week Committee.

Wartburg will be the site of a statewide ecumenical celebration Jan. 20. The Iowa Inter-Church Forum has accepted the Waverly Ministerial Association's offer of hosting the state's annual Celebration of Christian Unity. Archbishop Daniel Kucera, the new Catholic leader of the Dubuque diocese, will be the keynote speaker.

The campus ministry board will use that event to kick off Wartburg's annual Spiritual Emphasis Week, and students have arranged an on-campus dialogue the following day between Kucera and Dr. L. David Brown, the Iowa bishop of the American Lutheran Church.

To explain why there is heightened interest in campus ministry, Trachte points to enthusiastic students.

"The new students on campus are a top caliber group," he said. "It's easy to catch their excitement. They are interested, and they are getting involved."

Drew Flathmann, an admissions counselor who also is director of church relations, said, "There are two things we always stress about Wartburg—its strong academics and its environment that encourages involvement."

But it's not only the new students who are making this year different. It's the quality of upperclass leadership, according to Trachte, who says this year's campus ministry board is "tops".

New staff, faculty members named

The appointment of three new admissions counselors, one of whom will serve as the men's head track coach, a faculty member and a computer consultant completed staffing at Wartburg for the 1984-85 academic year.

There also were changes in responsibilities for three persons.

The new counselors are Amy Peters, a 1984 graduate of Iowa State University, Marty Johnson '83 and Richard Lee, assistant track coach at ISU since 1979.

Peters will work in Northwest Iowa, Johnson in Eastern Iowa and Lee in Southwest Iowa, including the Des Moines area.

Lee succeeds John Wuertz '73 as men's track coach. Wuertz resigned because of his other responsibilities at the college. Lee had been jumps and sprints coach at ISU and at South Dakota State. He also was assistant track coach at SDS.

Dr. Martha Lindbeck was appointed assistant professor of chemistry to replace Dr. Philip Welty, who had accepted another position. Lindbeck comes to Wartburg from Montana State University.

The new computer consultant is Ron Stahlberg '84, who is being offered as a resource to Northeast Iowa area businesses, a new service being managed through the college. He previously had assisted the State Bank of Waverly as a computer consultant.

There was one change of responsibility administratively and one academically.

Robert Nielson '81, formerly an admissions counselor, has been named director of financial aid, replacing Susan Brady, who accepted a similar position at the College of St. Catherine's in St. Paul, Minn. Nielson also is an assistant football coach.

The other change sees Dr. Melvin Kramer '52 appointed the new director of Experiential Business Education Programs and Dr. William Shipman, associate professor of economics, named chair of the business administration and economics department.

Kramer, who had been chair of the department since 1956, will be responsible for implementing, developing and coordinating intern programs for business students and for cultivating faculty-business exchanges. The latter is a new program which will have teachers and businessmen exchanging positions for a term or longer.

Options for Old Main discussed

Two options will be offered Wartburg College's Board of Regents concerning the renovation of Old Main at its February meeting.

The first is the recommendation of the administration to the board, following a study of possible functions of the building by project architect Edward G. Sauer of Brown Healey Bock, P.C., of Cedar Rapids. That is that a Humanities Center be created with Old Main as the focal point. There also would be construction of some additional space.

At the same time, the board, during its October meeting, requested detailed information and cost estimates on a minimal renovation of the 104-year old structure. This plan envisions maintaining the integrity of Old Main as a historical landmark on the National Register of Historic Sites but does not call for utilization of the complete building.

The project architect is to provide detailed plans for both options, and the board is to make a decision at its February meeting.

Old Main presently houses the religion and social work departments, Learning Resource Center, International Student Advisor, Counseling and Assessment Center, Health Center, Campus Security and a classroom.

Two Decades of Balancing the Budget

Walter Fredrick Jr. '39 returned to Wartburg College in 1962 after a distinguished 18-year career as a school superintendent in Iowa public schools. His first job title at Wartburg was assistant to the president under President C.H. Becker. "I've had a host of titles," says Fredrick. He later became vice president of financial affairs, then added treasurer to that title. Wartburg's Board of Regents also made him an adjunct professor of business administration in recognition of his role as a teacher as well as administrator. He has served as senior vice president since his successor, Dr. Ronald Matthias, assumed the title of vice president of financial affairs and treasurer on Sept. 1. Upon his retirement Dec. 31, Fredrick will be vice president emeritus of Wartburg College, the first time emeriti status has been conferred upon an administrator by the Wartburg Board of Regents. Fredrick, who has served as a Wartburg administrator for the past 22 years, has gained a reputation during that time as a faithful watchdog of the budget and an expert on knowing how to keep an institution out of the red and in the black. Last fiscal year he closed his account here by successfully managing more than a $10 million budget, the largest in the college's history. The following is an interview Wartburg Magazine conducted with Fredrick this fall.

WM: How did you get such an affinity for balancing budgets?
WFJR: As superintendent of schools for 18 years in three Iowa school districts, the budget was one of my favorite things, one of my chief interests. In fact, I had a good baptism in one of my previous jobs where I inherited a $70,000 deficit when I became superintendent.

Building a larger endowment is one of the most stable things that could happen to the future of this institution.

WM: How did you handle such a touchy situation?
WFJR: We had a good school board and I tried to educate them about what good fiscal practice was. We had an audit taken and disseminated a report of it to all people in the school district. We even printed up brochures to explain our financial situation. We had to raise taxes, but we came out of the difficulty rapidly.
WM: Are there similarities in the financial administration of public schools and private colleges?
WFJR: The funding is much different, but the basic ingredients are very similar.
WM: What formal training did you have in finance?
WFJR: I am probably an example of a self-taught business manager. I have to confess to you that I've never had a course in accounting in my life. I don't want to discount accounting or cite any criticism of it because there have been many times I've wished I'd had it. Two things have offset my lack of accounting experience: I took work in public school finance in graduate school and attended professional meetings. I took every opportunity to learn more about college finance by attending all the meetings of NACUBO (National Assn. of College and University Business Officers.) Secondly, I had the sense and good fortune to pick good people who could handle finances, namely Eldora Flugga (longtime Wartburg controller, now retired), Keith Stradtmueller (former Wartburg controller, currently vice president of financial affairs at Texas Lutheran College), and Rosamond Hoffman (current Wartburg controller).
WM: How many Wartburg presidents have you served?
WFJR: Four. All have been responsible financially, but each one had his own peculiar attitude toward finance.
WM: Will you expound on those peculiarities?
WFJR: In the case of Connie Becker (Dr. C. H. Becker 1945-64), he was perfectly happy to let his business officer take over and operate the institution with very few questions asked. Finance was not his big interest. He was more interested in people than dollars, but he was also concerned about the fiscal strength of the college. Bachman (Dr. John W. Bachman 1964-74) believed in a strong financial operation and a good, sound program. I appreciated the fact he wanted to run a tight ship. Jellema (Dr. William W. Jellema 1974-80) had a national reputation in educational finance when he came here. He ran a real tight fiscal operation, tighter than any other individual. He believed things were going to get tough for Wartburg financially, and he was determined that nothing was going to happen that would jeopardize the financial health of this institution. He also was an outstanding fundraiser. Vogel (Dr. Robert L. Vogel 1980-) has a deep interest in finance. When he came, he knew very little about it, but he was a fast learner. He gets deeply involved in the budgeting process, probably more than any other president, but he gives me a free hand. We have a fine working relationship.
WM: Besides the president, is there anyone else you've had to answer to?
WFJR: The Board of Regents, the faculty and staff. There's usually been someone on the board who is cost-conscious. I think particularly of people like Henry Schwerin, Lou Schneider and Cal Peterson. Those kinds of people are important to me. They gave me support when I needed it. Also, the faculty has been supportive and cooperative. I treasure the support and friendship of the faculty so much at Wartburg.
WM: Have you ever had to borrow money to keep the college budget balanced?
WFJR: Yes. In 1962 we had to borrow $100,000 to meet the payroll in August, and in 1963 we borrowed $20,000 for the same purpose. We haven't borrowed any since. Oh, once or twice we did just because of a cash flow problem.
WM: Have there been other times when the budget has been on hard times?
WFJR: There were a couple of times when enrollment took a sharp dip during the Jellema years, and that created serious budget problems. Our problems have been when enrollment takes a sharp dip. There are certain basic budgetary costs to running an institution, no matter how many students. Any income beyond that is gravy. That's when you can build up a margin of operation.
WM: Where do you put that "gravy"?
WFJR: Any difference of expenditures versus income in a given year goes into the balance that is carried forward from year to year and invested. The past year we did very well on short-term interest.
WM: What are your favorite investment vehicles?
WFJR: We invest pretty much in CDs (certificates of deposit). We have gone into money market funds on a limited basis. In the past we've also invested in commercial paper, but we've gotten out of that now. Some of our funds are still in money markets, but most now is in CDs. We used to be heavy into U.S. Treasury Bills. The last two or three years we've gone directly through our local bank. They've been able to match anything in the open market considering security of investment as being a prime consideration.
WM: What is the maturity rate of your investments?
WFJR: We don't invest for more than 90 days. Any more than that and you're trying to outguess what the market will do. It's safest not to go beyond 90 days.
WM: What about Wartburg's endowment? How is that money handled?
WFJR: Currently we have an endowment of $2 million plus. It's invested by an investment committee.
WM: Who sits on that committee?
WFJR: Paul Meyers, senior trust officer of the State Bank of Waverly and former vice president of investment at Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Bill Engelbrecht, former chairman of the Wartburg Board of Regents and the college's attorney; Bill Kerbey, office manager of Blunt, Ellis and Loewe stock brokerage firm in Waterloo; Bill Burger, senior trust officer of the National Bank of Waterloo; Wilbur Schield, retired Waverly industrialist; and myself. Members of the committee are appointed by the president.
WM: How often does the investment committee meet?
WFJR: Once every four to six weeks, depending on market conditions.

WM: What is its prime function?

WFJR: They manage a portfolio of stocks and bonds.

WM: Do the individuals on the committee have the same investment philosophies?

WFJR: The group gets along very well. They're very knowledgeable and know a lot about investment. Paul is the chairman. The principle of the thing, no pun intended, is not to use any capital, but to use only dividends or interest earnings. That interest is turned over to the college quarterly as income. The committee buys and sells stocks and bonds. Sometimes they lose, they don't always win. The committee has guidelines for the ratio between stocks and bonds to give the portfolio stability.

WM: How would you describe this group? Are they a speculative bunch?

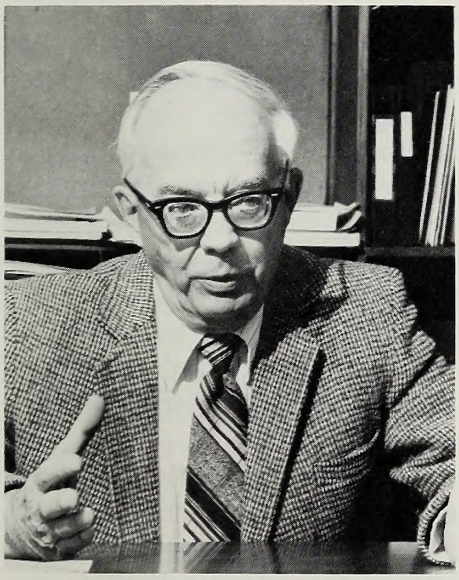
WFJR: They are fairly conservative.



They put a small percentage in risky investments. For the most part they stay with the blue chippers.

WM: Does the college invest in real estate?

WFJR: No. We own some property just off campus which the college believes it needs for future campus development. But we don't have enough money to venture into real estate and industry. That takes a tremendous amount of courage and resources. For example, the University of Chicago owns tankers and yachts. The big boys buy a tremendous amount of things, not just stocks.

WM: What if the college inherits real estate from a donor?

WFJR: We make a practice of selling property as soon as we can get a fair market value for it. Our practice is to sell and convert to cash.

WM: What's your assessment of the size of Wartburg's endowment?

WFJR: Building a larger endowment is one of the most stable things that could happen to the future of this institution. That would be the answer to the president's concern for stable enrollment. Endowment gives you a dependable source of income year after year. It's something to budget for on a regular basis, and basically, it's always going to be there.

WM: What about Wartburg's tuition? Will it continue to rise?

WFJR: Yes. I am concerned over the fact that we have to depend so heavily on tuition to run this institution. We have increased tuition every year but once since I've been here. During Bachman's administration, we held tuition one year. We thought we would set an example. But it never worked. It just meant the next year's increase was that much more.

WM: Will Wartburg get too expensive for its traditional constituency?

WFJR: As we get closer to an overall cost of $10,000, I have some concern about that. Obviously, the competition from state institutions will be more intense. As we cross the $10,000 mark, it becomes even more of a psychological barrier to overcome.

WM: What about financial aid to students?

WFJR: This whole matter of financial aid is of serious concern at Wartburg and other institutions. The college spends more than a million dollars of its own money for financial aid. That is becoming a serious matter. Wartburg desperately needs a substantial endowment.

WM: What is the ultimate threat of financial aid increases?

WFJR: The financial aid budget is increasing at a greater percentage than other costs, and with the uncertainty of federal aid, it's putting a heavier burden on the institution. Institutions tend to get more desperate and increase student aid. They start killing themselves financially. That's a concern of us all.

WM: Fiscally speaking, how sound is Wartburg compared to other Iowa private institutions?

WFJR: I feel Wartburg is on a very sound basis. It should not feel over-confident, but compared to other private institutions in Iowa, Wartburg is certainly in the upper quartile as far as financial soundness. We have a tradition of operation in the black. The board of regents has taken the position that it wants a sound financial operation. If the board didn't have the money, it didn't spend it. Of course, there has to be a certain amount of risk in this business. Otherwise, you can hamstring the institution.

I see a bright future for this institution. In the past two or three years the momentum has been established.

WM: What future do you see for Wartburg?

WFJR: I see a bright future for this institution. In the past two or three years the momentum has been established. If given an amount of guidance, and if fueled properly, it can push this institution out in front. But there has to be a degree of caution exercised along the way. Everybody knows there are going to be fewer students to draw from. We can't kid ourselves that we'll have an increased enrollment every year. We have a certain momentum developed that bodes well for this institution. If it can be nurtured, I see a bright outlook.

WM: Will you continue to read the Wall Street Journal every morning?

WFJR: Yes. It's a superb publication. It's a way of keeping in touch with the world. It also helps with my responsibility to the investment committee. Those guys are pros. When they come together, they're each carrying a Wall Street Journal.

WM: After December, what's your encore?

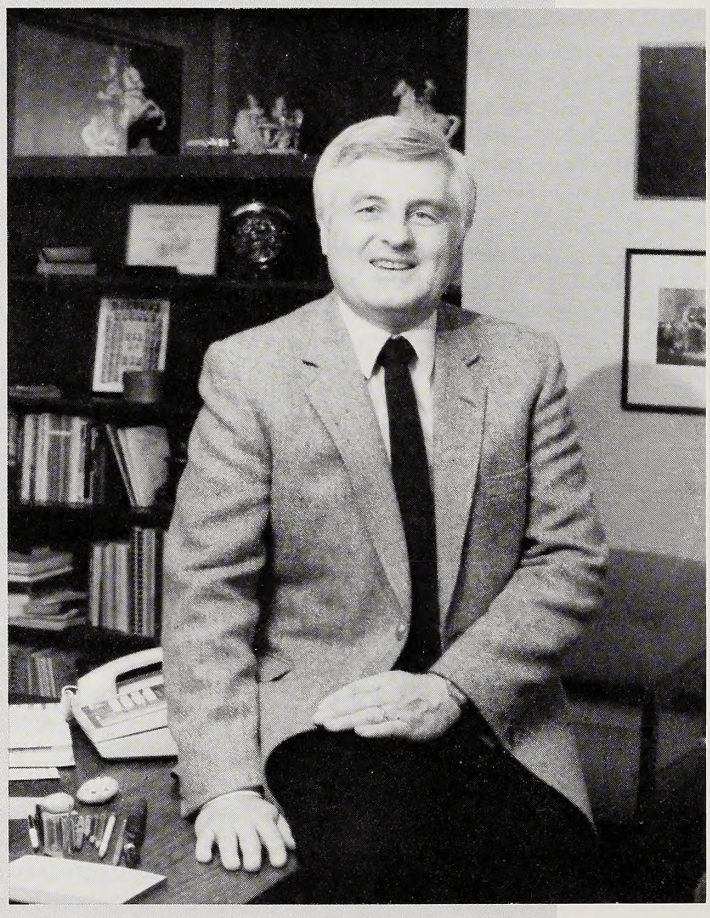
WFJR: I'm basically a farm boy at heart. I have 16 acres with 12 acres of timber, an orchard and 3½ acres of tillable land. I have a large garden. I like to work with wood. I like to just go out in the woods—I have two chain saws and a log splitter. It's real therapy. I raise apples and, basically, I like to match my wits with Mother Nature. Fortunately I have a life's companion who likes the same kind of life. I cut the wood, Jean fuels the fireplace.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE



The difference at Wartburg is that all things fit together: academic pursuits, personal interests and spiritual growth.

"The Difference" is the title of the film Wartburg College has produced about its life and mission. All of us who know Wartburg believe there is a difference. The film documents a learned and caring faculty, the quality of campus life and the attractiveness of college facilities as important elements. But it is clear that the difference at Wartburg is a matter of spirit and heritage and faith.

There is a vibrant religious life on the Wartburg campus, as the film portrays. There is one statement in the narrative, however, which sets forth most clearly the difference at Wartburg College.

"The difference at Wartburg is that all things fit together: academic pursuits, personal interests and spiritual growth."

The primary mission of Wartburg College is education. What is special about Wartburg is the environment in which a quality education is offered to students. That environment includes a strong sense of community and a warm, friendly spirit. All of it is rooted in the Gospel of Jesus Christ and finds continual purpose and direction from its heritage of service to the church.

Permit me to use Randy as an example.

Randy was a good student in high school. He wanted to be a doctor. He knew Wartburg had an outstanding record for getting its pre-medical students accepted into medical schools of their choice.

In conversation with some church leaders who were visiting campus, Randy put it this way:

"I made a deal with Wartburg College. I'll give you four years of my life if you give me credentials to get into the University of Iowa Medical School."

Then Randy described what happened sometime in his junior year. He began asking why he wanted to be a doctor? What did he intend to do with his medical training? What did he want his life to express?

As a senior, he was quick to state that he had not changed his vocational choice. He still wanted to be a doctor. But he wanted to be more than a doctor. He saw his vocational choice within a larger vocation—an expression of his personal faith and commitment. He indicated that he was considering service as a medical missionary.

I have discovered that Randy's story is not unusual on our campus. At some point in a student's studies here, the student is confronted with the heritage and commitment to Christian service which makes Wartburg special or different.

The life of Kathryn Koob, one of the Iranian hostages and a Wartburg graduate, is a beautiful statement about "the difference." Raised in the faith by loving, Christian parents, nurtured in the faith as a member of a small, rural Iowa parish, helped along the way through the ministry of faithful pastors and Sunday School teachers and through the prayers and support of the members of that parish, Kathryn came to Wartburg College, a college of the church. She describes her college years as years of "stretching."

Exposed to ideas and issues she had never confronted before, faced with opportunities she had never imagined, and challenged to now determine her course in life, Kathryn explains how her faith and her understanding of the world and her own life were broadened and deepened at Wartburg College.

What a powerful witness she has made to her faith in Jesus Christ and his mission of bringing love, hope and fulfillment to all people everywhere.

In many ways Kathryn's story is unusual. She is a remarkable person. At the same time, her story is not so unusual. An accident of history permitted all of us and the world to perceive the fruits of her growth and development as a person. As her aunt said when Kathryn returned, "Any of our youngsters would have done the same, for they all had the same training."

Wartburg has meant the difference for thousands of students. Wartburg is committed to helping "make the difference" for generation of students to come.

Thanks to you for your partnership and support. Glory be to God!

Wartburg President Robert L. Vogel presents the citation for an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree to the Rev. Homer Larson, pastor of Nazareth Lutheran Church in Cedar Falls, while his wife, Eunice, watches. The honorary degree, which was presented for Pastor Larson's service to community and church, was awarded twice—at both morning worship services Sunday, Sept. 23. Pastor Larson has been at Nazareth since 1953.

LB Endowment Challenge Matches Gifts of $124,690

Lutheran Brotherhood has presented matching funds based on $124,690 from 39 donors designated for Wartburg's permanent endowment.

Lutheran Brotherhood matching funds are based on 50 cents on the dollar given from other sources. The resulting Lutheran Brotherhood money to date of $62,345 is a payment toward a grant of $200,000. Wartburg must qualify for the remaining amount of the grant by June 30, 1986.

Qualifying gifts must be designated for Wartburg's permanent endowment but can be restricted to a special interest, such as an endowed scholarship, or academic chair, for instance.

Lutheran Brotherhood matching funds will establish a restricted endowment from which earnings will be drawn annually to provide scholarships for Lutheran students.

HERITAGE CLUB

This was a year of record growth in Wartburg Heritage Club membership. Thirty-four new members brought total membership to 280 individuals and couples representing 28 states.

Qualifying for membership in the Heritage Club requires informing the college of having provided for a future gift to Wartburg through a will, trust, annuity, insurance policy or having established a restricted endowment.

The seventh annual meeting of the Heritage Club was held May 18 with nearly 100 members in attendance.

Efforts headed by Craig Wierson, immediate past president of the Alumni Board, were initiated to achieve a goal of "50 new members in the Heritage Club this year."

BASKETBALL

Men

Coach Buzz Levick was extremely pleased with the way his young Wartburg basketball team developed last year as it managed to climb into a tie for third place with a 9-5 Iowa Conference record, and one would think the Knights would be ready to capitalize on that progress.

However, Levick cautions, "This is a well balanced league. We have two starters back, and some other players with ability, but so does everyone else. Thirty of last year's 40 starters return as do seven of 14 All Iowa Conference players. So, moving up in the standings is going to be difficult."

The two starters back are guard Daryl Sloter of Dunwoody, Ga., who broke into the line-up midway through the season and wound up averaging 5.7 points per game, and forward Lance Van Deest of Grundy Center, who averaged 8.4 points and 5.1 rebounds.

Other returning letterwinners from last year's 14-5 club include Mark Brown of Iowa City, who was a starter early in the year and had a 5.1 scoring average, forward Ward Prine of Council Bluffs, the number six man last year who is the top scorer back with a 9.4 average, center Todd Wille of Klemme, guard Bob Newbrough of Humboldt and forward Dan Gerdes of Charles City.

"Our starters will be sound," Levick said, "although we lack an experienced big man inside."

A candidate for the center position is freshman Art Saathoff of Iowa Falls, who led his high school to the finals of the state tournament last year.

"He is a promising player," Levick said, "but he needs to gain some collegiate experience to really be effective."

Levick noted this will be a young team with seven sophomores and one freshman on his roster.

"Right now I would have to say we lack depth until we get some experience. We have some young players as reserves who have ability. It is just a matter of getting them some playing time."

Women

After posting its first winning season in six years last winter, there is cause for some optimism in Wartburg's women's basketball camp.

Four starters return from last season's 14-10 club plus two top reserves.

Among those starters is strong forward Sharon Ubben of Aplington, who averaged 14.8 points a game last season and pulled down 179 rebounds. That earned her a spot on the All Iowa Conference first team.

Other starters back include forward Sandy Bill of Riceville, who averaged 9.3 points, guard Lori Brown of Beloit, Wis., who averaged 6.3 points, and guard LeAnn Bollum of Goodhue, Minn., who averaged only 3.3 points but was the squad's playmaker with 111 assists.

Other letterwinners back include guard Cindy Suess of Luxemburg, Wis., who averaged an even 7.0 points coming off the bench, and center Molly DeGroote of Humboldt, who averaged 2.5 in 11 games.

Forward Janis Koch of Two Rivers, Wis., who showed promise as a freshman, is also expected to play a key role this season.

Coach Kathy Meyer's biggest problem is replacing the offense which was generated last year by center Lynn Dose, who has graduated and is now playing international basketball in Luxembourg.

Dose averaged 17.3 points and hauled in 227 rebounds last season to become Wartburg's all-time leader in both categories. She finished her career with 1,491 points and 985 rebounds plus nine other school records.

To compound the problem at the post, Tammy Garrison of Winona, Minn., the top reserve at that position last season, is studying in Europe this year.

Meyer is satisfied she has found another center in the person of Sue Klahsen of Aplington, a transfer from Waldorf and an All Region player while in junior college.

"However, we don't have any depth at the post," Meyer said. "We have a

CROSS COUNTRY—A fast-improving Wartburg women's cross country team is beginning to close the gap between itself and Luther, winners of the first two Iowa Conference championships. As the Wartburg Magazine went to press, the women had run in four meets and had two left before the IIAC meet. They had won two of the meets, the Simpson Invitational and the State College Meet, and had finished second in the Les Duke Invitational. Coach Jan Johnson says the strength of her squad is its balance. The squad has been able to maintain excellent groupings in most meets. The men's team has been hampered by injuries to standouts Dan Huston of Waverly, Iowa, and Dave Smith of Waterloo, Iowa. However, Coach John Kurtt had been pleased with his squad's improvement until the State College Meet, where ". . . we finished a poor fourth." Getting everyone back in top form before the IIAC meet was Kurtt's major concern. Wartburg hosted both the IIAC meet Nov. 2 and the NCAA Division III Central Regional Meet, which includes schools from a nine-state area, Nov. 10. The latter determines national qualifiers for the run in Delaware, Ohio, Nov. 17.

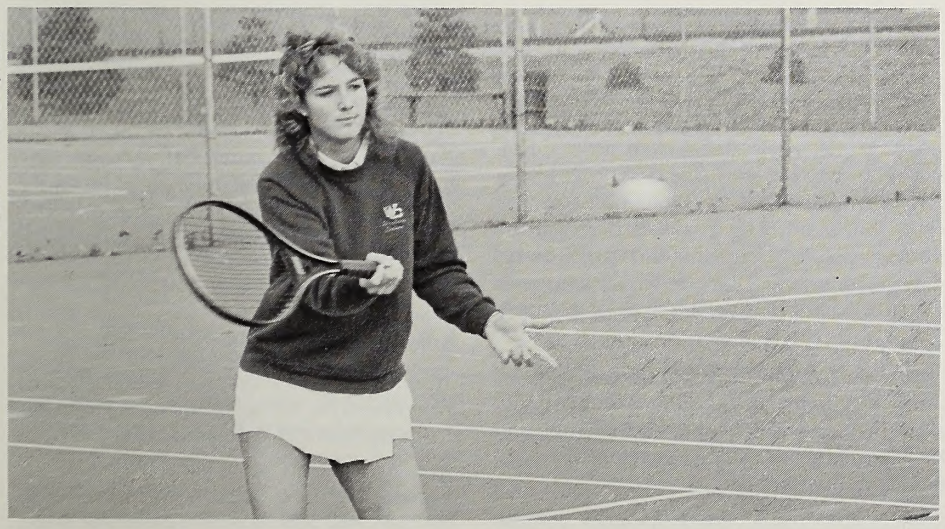
FOOTBALL AND SOCCER—One of Wartburg's two promising freshmen tailbacks, Brad Ott, son of Dr. Marvin and Jan Wegenast Ott '61/'63, hurdles bodies on a kick-off retum against Central to gain additional yardage for the Knights. Unfortunately, everyone came up a bit short in a 21-17 loss to pre-season favorite Central. As the Wartburg Magazine goes to press, the Knights are 4-1 overall and 2-1 in league play. An injury to quarterback Gary Walljasper of Marshalltown, Iowa, hasn't slowed the Knights' offense, however. They have scored more than 50 points in three of their first five games. The soccer team hasn't fared so well. It was 1-9-1 with two matches remaining when the magazine went to press. The key problems have been inexperience and lack of personnel. However, Coach Mark Schneider says his young squad is learning his system, and he is building for the future.

BARBARA KLUESNER



GOLF, TENNIS AND VOLLEYBALL—Freshman Marti Koch of Waverly powered the Wartburg women's tennis team to a third place finish in the Iowa Conference by placing second in the first flight singles and then teaming with Lori Brown of Beloit, Wis., to place second in the first flight doubles. That is the highest a Wartburg coed has ever finished in the first flight and bodes well for the future for Coach Gayle Stensland, who started the season without an experienced player on her roster. Things haven't gone quite so well for either the women's golf or volleyball teams. The golfers finished a distant fifth in the Iowa Conference meet, and the volleyballers were 3-8 overall and 1-6 in IIAC play with seven matches remaining. Inexperience was a problem for both teams.

healthy situation in the backcourt, but Ubben is our only strong forward. Our bench is going to be young."

Meyer said her squad, which placed fourth in the IIAC with an 8-6 record, must improve its fast break and pressing defense if it hopes to challenge William Penn, Central and Simpson for the title.

WRESTLING

A rash of transfers plus a couple of losses via graduation make Wartburg's young wrestling team even younger this season.

"It'll be a freshman-loaded line-up," Coach Dick Walker said as he begins his 17th season at Wartburg. "We're going to lack experience."

Mike Hogan, a four-time IIAC champion, and Jay Bean, who placed sixth in the NCAA Division III meet last year to win All American honors, have graduated, and Al Hoeper and Brian Costigan, Wartburg's other two IIAC champs, did not return to school.

Consequently, that paves the way for a lot of newcomers to break into the starting line-ups.

Five letterwinners are back from last year's third place team, headed by Bing Miller of Hoffman Estates, Ill. at 118, who posted a 15-12-1 record last winter. Scott Ruhnke of Algona at 190, 20-12 last year, Steve Helle of Edgewood at 134, 4-20, and Scott Nelson of Manchester at 150, 11-18. The fifth veteran, Jeff Miller of Plainfield, won his letter at 134 in 1982-83 as a freshman but did not wrestle last year.

There are eight freshmen who Walker thinks have potential, including a pair of heavyweights: Walt Vering of Janesville and Chris Klaus of Colesburg.

Others who likely will see action this winter include Mike Byram of Waverly at 167, Matt Parmely of Dundee at 158, Steve Harms of Tripoli at 150, Brian Millage of Muscatine at 158, Steve Brade of Muscatine at 142 and Dennis Gaul of Colesburg at 134.

Walker sees Central, last year's champ, and Buena Vista, the runner-up, again battling for the league crown. Where the Knights place will depend upon how fast this young squad matures.

64 Les Yeager and Marilyn Brown were married June 16 at the Stone City Inn. They are living in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he is chairman of the language arts department at Taft Junior High.

65 Michael Becker, Madison, Wis., has been appointed director of the Wisconsin Office for Children, Youth and Families.

The Rev. Robert Holdorf has been appointed student-pastor of the Urbana and Stewart Memorial United Methodist Churches. He will divide his time between serving the churches and attending class at the University of Dubuque Theological Seminary. He and his wife live in Vinton, Iowa, and are the parents of Devin, 16, Andrea, 14, Ryan, 8 and Nathan, 6.

How do you get your kids to select Wartburg?

Some 42 students who have alumni parents entered Wartburg College last September, the largest number in recent years.

How do alumni get their children to consider attending their alma mater?

According to David and Barbara Knoll Jensen '61/'79 of Urbandale, Iowa, the key is to tread lightly. They didn't push the idea of attending Wartburg with their son, John, because they didn't want to "turn him off."

So, they couldn't have been more surprised to find their names on the list of alumni whose children are new Wartburg students, they said. John, the youngest of four children, is a member of the class of '88.

John began hearing more about Wartburg after his family moved back to Iowa from the East Coast more than a year ago. His parents also were on campus for Wartburg's 1983 homecoming.

"We had a good time at homecoming last year," Barbara said, "so John was learning about the community spirit at Wartburg. Then Coach Buzz Levick invited him to attend a basketball game, a cliff hanger. We sat next to Dr. John Chellevold (professor emeritus of mathematics), reliving old times. We all had a good night."

John says it was always a "family joke" that he would attend Wartburg, but he argued for a larger Eastern college. Prior to attending the Wartburg basketball game, he had only been to the Wartburg campus once, when he was four years old. Cotta House was all he could recall of that visit.

After their trip back to Wartburg for homecoming, he noticed that his parents were impressed with the changes that had taken place at the college.

"And Wartburg's academics impressed us," he said.

Barbara says now it was the reverse psychology of not requiring their son to attend Wartburg which seemed to work. "We really put pressure on him to go other places because we didn't want him to be burdened with the expectation that he attend Wartburg," she said. "But the reverse psychology worked and we are ecstatic."

John is a business/marketing/management major and is looking forward to going out for Wartburg's basketball team.

The following is a listing of freshmen and transfer students who have alumni parents:

Jeff Bergeson, James and Sharon Johnson Bergeson '77, Webster City, Iowa; Beth Bickford, Jack and Judith Holtz Bickford '62, Maquoketa, Iowa; Thomas Biedermann, the Rev. Eric and Carolyn Adix Biedermann '54/'57, Ankeny, Iowa; Stacia Clarke, William and Sylvia Riggle '63, Iowa City, Iowa; Carol Croghan, Larry and Amy Kuehl Croghan '64/'66, Dubuque, Iowa.

John Jensen surprised his father, David Jensen '61 (right), by enrolling in Wartburg last fall. His parents are pleased, and their advice to alumni is "push gently." Forty other alumni children made the same decision, making this year's class of alumni children the largest that has enrolled in the past 10 years.

Joel Dickman, the Rev. Dennis and Karen Mantin Dickman '59/'61, Waverly, Iowa; Marie Egenes, Paul and Lois Landdeck Egenes '48, Newton, Iowa; Stuart Fritz, Darwin and Becky Fritz '59, Postville, Iowa; Lynn Gray, Ronald and Janice Eggers Gray '63, Miles, Iowa; Steven Harms, Richard and Joyce Harms '64, Tripoli, Iowa.

Jonathan Hays, the Rev. Ronald and Marilynn Bohrofen Hays '58/'60, Tokyo Japan; Kai Heinecken, M. Theodore and Gisela Heinecken '54, Chicago, Ill.; Ervin Hesterberg, the Rev. Ervin and Marie Shaffer Hesterberg '64/'63, Coulter, Iowa; Harold Hinrichs, the Rev. Harold and Joan Foster Hinrichs '57/'58, Minneapolis, Minn.; Jane Jebsen, the Rev. Richard and Joyce Speicher Jebsen '61/'60, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Reflections on a visit

By Gil Wessel, M.D. '59
Obstetrician/Gynecologist
Cedar Rapids, Iowa
President-elect, Wartburg Alumni Board

I've just spent a long weekend in Waverly visiting my mother, attending the Wartburg alumni board fall meeting, participating in multiple homecoming activities, celebrating with my 1959 classmates at our 25th year reunion, and reacquainting myself with most of the members of the '58-'59 championship basketball team. It was a busy, informative, and fun weekend.

Many changes are obvious at Wartburg, some dramatic, others more subtle. The most prominent physical change is the absence of Wartburg Hall—a structure significant in some way to all alumni. In its place is the new Whitehouse Business Center, striking in its design and optimally functional in its use, physically connecting the Student Union with Luther Hall, totally transforming traffic patterns and activities. At the opposite end of campus, the Physical Education Center addition to Knights Gymnasium was bustling with multiple activities, obviously fulfilling a long-time unmet need. The alumni board was presented preliminary thoughts about the renovation of Old Main; very interesting and perhaps a bit surprising. Keep tuned!!

A stop at the admissions office, located in the center of the Whitehouse Business Center, with a panoramic view of the entire campus, provided specific information about other aspects of more subtle changes at Wartburg: 1) There are approximately 30 full-time black students enrolled. 2) Lutherans now constitute only 60 percent of the student population; 12 percent of the students list Roman Catholicism as their religion. 3) Flags of 15 nations hang in Neumann Auditorium, representing the origins of the present foreign students enrolled. In my view, these changes make Wartburg a more attractive place for college study and activity, representing a positive reflection of its desire and ability to face the reality of the world of 1984 and beyond.

Many things, however, are unchanged—there still was totally insufficient time, even in a long weekend, to visit adequately with all the old friends, classmates, present students (many of whom are sons and daughters of classmates), and professors, both past and present, that make Wartburg homecoming a real "happening." Kastle Kapers remains a combination of total daffyness and enviable musical talent. The Sunday worship service would inspire all but the most narrow-minded Luther grad.

The old Wartburg spirit and newly emerging "Wartburg Pride" was increasingly obvious. We can all be very proud of our alma mater. There is no need for embarrassment about a Wartburg association, either past or present. On the basis of my recent visit, I encourage all alumni to make a similar trip; a return to Wartburg is truly a renewing experience.

Roger Sherman, Wauwatosa, Wis., was appointed vice president of human services by the board of directors of Goodwill Industries, Milwaukee Area, Inc., Milwaukee, Wis. He and his wife, Corine, are parents of Jeffrey, 15, and Julie, 12.

The new Wartburg College Alumni Directory is printed and complimentary copies have been mailed out. All alumni who contributed to the college during the past fiscal year (June 1, 1983 - May 31, 1984) should receive one.

The increase in our alumni support this past year has been tremendous. We are pleased to be able to send our contributors a directory as an expression of our gratitude and appreciation.

It is still possible to obtain a directory by sending a contribution of $25 or more to Wartburg College so long as our limited supply of additional directories is available.
